OOCL Logistics (China) received RSQAS certification

OOCL Logistics (China) Limited (OLCL) is pleased to have obtained the RSQAS (Road Safety Quality Assessment System) certification.

In May, OLCL underwent a strict on-site audit for RSQAS certification conducted by SGS (a well-known, world-leading, third-party auditing organization) reviewing our Shanghai offices, trucking fleet and warehousing. OOCL Logistics scored high marks - difficult to accomplish with the high auditing standards.

RSQAS is a program run by the AICM (Association of International Chemical Manufacturers), which consists of many established chemical producers. The system is a comprehensive, high-standard assessment of a company's management of road transportation. It aims at evaluating the quality, safety, security, and environmental performance of road transportation service providers in a uniform manner through single standardized assessments performed by independent inspectors.

OOCL Logistics considers SHEQ to be of great importance. Not only by strengthening cargo management by optimizing the business process, but also ensuring the development of systems and emergency plans. With our long-term partnership with several established chemical producers, OOCL Logistics has comprehensive risk control abilities to provide quality services to our customers.
